GOP Kickoff Blasts Kerry

Democrat assailed as weak alternative to unwavering Bush

NEW YORK | Republicans belittled Democratic Sen. John Kerry as a shift-in-the-wind campaigner unworthy of the White House on Monday, opening their national convention four miles from Ground Zero of America's worst terrorist attack. "We need George Bush more than ever," said former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani.

"We need a leader with the experience to make the tough decisions and the resolve to stick with them," added Sen. John McCain of Arizona. In prepared remarks released ahead of his speech, McCain called the invasion of Iraq "necessary, achievable and noble."

McCain and Giuliani were the evening's principal prime-time speakers, a reflection of their ability to win political support outside the president's conservative base.

Both men took pains to reach out to Democrats. And while Giuliani ridiculed Kerry repeatedly, McCain offered no criticism of the president's Democratic rival, his longtime Senate colleague and a man he calls a friend. Instead, he gave a full-throated endorsement of Bush as a wartime president.

Since the day terrorists attacked, McCain said of Bush, "He has not wavered. He has not flinched from the hard choices. He will not yield. And neither will we."

Even the conservative GOP platform, crafted to Bush's specifications and approved swiftly by the delegates, lauded the president's response to the attacks. "The president's most solemn duty is to protect our country. George W. Bush has kept that charge," it said.

The president, locked in a tight race for re-election, campaigned in New Hampshire and Michigan as the GOP opened its four-day convention. DAVID ESPO (AP)

RESCUES

Taking a Stab

A 29-year-old Gainesville, Fla., man jumped into a pond and stabbed a 6-foot alligator with a pocketknife to force the reptile to release his dog from its jaws. Matthew Goff said his dog, Sugar, a bloodhound/Shar-Pei mix, survived the attack — and so did the alligator. (AP)

DERRING-DO

Fall Guy

Matt McClone of Shiocton, Wis., had an up-and-down day over the weekend, but for a good reason. McClone jumped out of an airplane 100 times in 12 hours Saturday to help raise an estimated $14,000 for breast cancer survivors. That works out to $1,400 per jump for the Madison-based Breast Cancer Recovery Foundation — and one jump every seven minutes. The 26-year-old repeatedly leapt from an altitude of 2,500 feet, touched down, then spent less than a minute on the ground before getting back into another plane. (AP)

GEOGRAPHY

Wish Here Were Here

The postcard at Cracker Barrel restaurants in Columbia, S.C., said "Greetings from Columbia," but the fountain in the picture won't be found anywhere near there. Instead it was one of the most famous fountains in Savannah, Ga., about 150 miles south of South Carolina's capital. The restaurant chain pulled the postcards after a reporter from The (Columbia) State newspaper pointed out the error earlier this month. The fountain on the postcard is the centerpiece of Savannah's Forsyth Park, a city icon frequently featured in Georgia tourism ads. (AP)

A traditional ox race is undoubtedly the scene of several tense moments. The riders may be a bit nervous, the oxen a little unhappy with their new predicament. But if you ask Andreas Strobl, the really tough part is staying on the ox. Fellow soldier expands on Pfc. England's role in Iraq prison scandal

FORT BRAGG, N.C. | Pfc. Lynndie England stomped on fingers and toes and appeared to be having a good time as she ridiculed naked, hooded Iraqi detainees while others took photographs at the Abu Ghraib prison, a fellow soldier testified Monday.

Pvt. Jeremy C. Sivits, who has pleaded guilty in the scandal, testified at a hearing in England's case that a sergeant at the Baghdad prison ordered England and another soldier to stop "stomping on the fingers and toes" of a detainee one night in December 2003.

After the sergeant left, Sivits testified, he watched as Spc. Charles Graner Jr. and others stacked seven naked detainees in a pyramid and photographed them. The infamous photos included shots of England.

Questioned by England's attorney, Sivits acknowledged he never reported the alleged abuse. He said he had believed it was sanctioned by military intelligence. (AP)

FBI Briefs Top Officials in Spy Probe

Investigation into suspected leak to Israel may be nearing an end

WASHINGTON | Two high-ranking Defense Department officials have been briefed by FBI agents investigating a Pentagon analyst suspected of passing U.S. secrets about Iran to the Israeli government, officials said Monday.

The recent briefings of Deputy Defense Secretary Paul Wolfowitz and Douglas Feith, the undersecretary for policy, could indicate that the yearlong FBI probe is nearing a conclusion. No arrests have been made or charges announced.

Investigators were forced to accelerate activity in the case when news stories about it began appearing on Friday, according to two law enforcement officials speaking on condition of anonymity because the probe is ongoing. The publicity also may have hampered the ability of investigators to follow key leads and provided warning to potential targets, they said.

The central figure in the investigation is Larry Franklin, a Middle East analyst who works in Feith's office. Franklin was described by law enforcement officials as cooperating with the FBI. (AP)

Bryant Jury Pool Faces Questions

Lawyers poll potential jurors via surveys and individual interviews

EAGLE, COLO. | Prospective jurors in the Kobe Bryant rape case were asked their feelings on racial prejudice, interracial relationships, marital infidelity and justice for the rich and famous in an 82-item questionnaire released Monday.

The potential jurors filled out the surveys Friday, and lawyers began questioning them individually behind closed doors Monday after District Judge Terry Ruckriegle rejected a request to let the media listen in.

Ruckriegle said he wanted the prospective jurors to feel they could answer questions about potentially embarrassing topics without media scrutiny. He said the prospective jurors' right to privacy and Bryant's right to a fair trial outweigh the First Amendment right of access.

NBA star Kobe Bryant arrives at the courthouse in Eagle, Colo., on Monday.

Bryant, 26, who appeared at the courthouse Monday, has pleaded not guilty to felony sexual assault, saying he had consensual sex with a then-19-year-old employee at a Vail-area resort last summer.

The jury survey included questions about their impressions of pro basketball players, and whether they believe wealthy people are treated better by the courts. JON SANCHE (AP)

Man Decapitated During Ride Home With Best Friend

MARIETTA, GA. | A drunken driver ran off the road and sideswiped a telephone-pole support wire, decapitating his best friend, who was hanging out the passenger window, police say.

A neighbor walking with his baby daughter Sunday discovered 23-year-old Francis Daniel Brohm's headless corpse in the parked truck and called authorities.

Hutcherson was charged with vehicular homicide and other offenses. He was jailed Monday on $100,000 bail.

Officers said Hutcherson appeared remorseful after they woke him Sunday, covered in blood and visibly drunk. (AP)

THE WIN COLUMN: President Bush, speaking here in Nashua, N.H., on Monday, suggested during an interview on NBC's “Today” show that an all-out victory in the war on terrorism may not be possible, a statement that inflamed some Democrats.

Words and the War

Bush's terror comments spark political firestorm

NASHUA, N.H. | President Bush ignited a Democratic inferno of criticism on Monday by suggesting the war on terrorism could not be won, forcing his aides to scramble to defend his remarks just as he had hoped to bask in convention accolades.

In an interview on NBC-TV's

“Today” show, Bush vowed to stay the course in the war on terror, saying perseverance in the battle would make the world safer for future generations. But he suggested an all-out victory against terrorism might not be possible.

Asked “Can we win?” Bush said,

“I don't think you can win it. But I think you can create conditions so that the — those who use terror as a tool are less acceptable in parts of the world.”

Democrats, looking for ways to deflect the spotlight from Republicans as they opened their convention in York, pounced.

“After months of listening to the Republicans base their campaign on their singular ability to win the war on terror, the president now says we can't win the war on terrorism,” said Democratic vice presidential candidate John Edwards. “This is no time to declare defeat.”

White House spokesman Scott McClellan sought to clarify the president's remarks, telling reporters, “He was talking about winning it in the conventional sense ... about how this is a different kind of war

Al-Sadr Planning To Turn to Politics

Rebel cleric in Iraq wants fighters to end rebellion, adviser says

BAGHDAD | Rebel cleric Muqtada al-Sadr called on his followers to end their uprising against U.S. and Iraqi forces while he considers forming a political movement, senior al-Sadr officials said Monday.

Al-Sadr has backed off other commitments in the past, but a truce would be a major victory for interim Prime Minister Ayad Allawi by removing a serious insurgency and potentially bringing many of the Shiite cleric's followers into the effort to build a peaceful democracy.

Sheik Ali Smeisim, an adviser to al-Sadr, announced the cease-fire decision in Najaf, calling on the cleric's Mahdi Army militiamen to "stop firing until the announcement of the political program adopted by the Sadrist movement."

He also urged U.S. and Iraqi troops to move out of the center of Iraqi cities, although that did not appear to be a condition for the unilateral cease-fire. Asked if the truce would take effect immediately, Smeisim said, "I hope so."

Al-Sadr had posed the biggest challenge yet to Allawi's government, with three weeks of heavy fighting in Najaf threatening to inflame Iraqi Shiites by endangering the revered Imam Ali Shrine.

al-Sadr

A peace deal mediated by Iraq's top Shiite religious leader ended the fighting in Najaf last week, but clashes have continued elsewhere. Al-Sadr's aides and Iraqi government officials met in Baghdad on Monday to try to negotiate an end to violence that has wracked the capital.

The government has repeatedly called on al-Sadr to disband his militia and join politics. His aides didn't say whether he was dissolving the militia, but for the first time they said he was preparing to enter politics. KIM HOUSEGO (AP)

High Blood-Pressure, Cold Weather and Heart Attacks

People with high blood pressure seem to be more vulnerable to heart attacks when the temperature drops, new research by scientists at the University of Burgundy in France shows. The findings, presented Monday at a conference of the European Society of Cardiology, are not surprising because cold weather makes the blood vessels constrict. But the study is the first to document that variations in the weather increase the occurrence of heart attacks in people with high blood pressure. (AP)

Hostages Urge France To End Headscarf Ban

Journalists held in Iraq appear in videotape

PARIS | Two French journalists held hostage by Islamic militants in Iraq appealed Monday for their countrymen and president to save their lives by giving in to their captors' demand to rescind a ban on Muslim headscarves in French schools.

A video of the reporters was broadcast by Al-Jazeera hours after France insisted it would go ahead with the ban on Thursday.

"I appeal to the French people to go to the streets ... because our lives are threatened," Georges Malbrunot said in English on the video. Fellow hostage Christian Chesnot, speaking in French, called on President Jacques Chirac to drop the ban.

The two men went missing Aug. 19. In a video broadcast Saturday, a group calling itself "The Islam Army in Iraq" gave France 48 hours to overturn the ban, but mentioned no threat against the men's lives. However, a group with a similar name was believed to have killed an Italian journalist last week after Italy rejected a demand that it withdraw its 3,000 soldiers in Iraq.

Al-Jazeera said the group holding the two men extended its deadline by 24 hours, to late Tuesday. (AP)

Man Questioned in Afghan Blast Probe

KABUL, AFGHANISTAN | Investigators probing a deadly car bombing in the Afghan capital questioned a man detained at Kabul airport who had traces of explosives on his hands, officials said Monday.

Taliban rebels claimed responsibility for Sunday's blast at the office of Dyncorp Inc., a U.S.

security firm. Hospital officials said 10 people were killed, including three Americans. None of the victims were identified.

NATO troops grew suspicious of a man at Kabul airport on Sunday, spokesman Lt. Cdr. Ken Mackillop said. They tested his hands and found traces of explosives.

The man, who wasn't identified, was handed over to Afghan authorities on Monday for further interrogation. STEPHEN GRAHAM (AP)

Sharon Aims to Speed Up Gaza Pullout

JERUSALEM | Prime Minister Ariel Sharon wants all 21 Jewish settlements in the Gaza Strip evacuated at the same time instead of in three stages, officials said Monday, reflecting a major shift in tactics.

Sharon's goals are to prevent drawn-out and violent confrontations between settlers and the security forces, as well as multiple confrontations in his Cabinet.

According to Sharon's "unilateral disengagement" plan, the Gaza settlements are to be removed in three stages by the end of September 2005. Though most of the 8,000 settlers are expected to leave quietly, a small number would likely dig in and try to fend off security forces.

Sharon is expected to present a timetable on the evacuation to his rebellious Likud Party legislative faction on Tuesday. MARK LAVIE (AP)

Va. Congressman Retires

Announcement comes as rumors spread that Schrock is secretly gay

RICHMOND, VA. | U.S. Rep. Edward L. Schrock abruptly announced Monday that he will not seek a third term in Congress, citing unspecified allegations that have "called into question" his ability to serve.

In a five-paragraph news release issued by his office, Schrock said allegations have surfaced in recent weeks "that have called into question my ability to represent the citizens of Virginia's Second Congressional District."

He continued: "Therefore, as of today, I am stepping aside and will no longer be the Republican nominee for Congress." The release said he would not comment further on his decision, nor did he comment specifically on the allegations.

Rumors that Schrock — who is married — is gay have recently surfaced on the Internet.

The decision to retire leaves the Republicans scrambling to field another candidate to oppose Democrat David B. Ashe in the conservative district that includes Norfolk and Virginia Beach.

Schrock, 63, a retired career Navy officer and Vietnam veteran, was elected to the seat in a 2000 Republican sweep of Virginia in an area that is home to the world's largest U.S. Navy base. BOB LEWIS (AP)

Muhammad Suffers Loss in Va. Court

FAIRFAX, VA. | A judge on Monday rejected arguments from convicted sniper John Allen Muhammad that constitutional protections against double jeopardy prohibit a second death-penalty prosecution in the October 2002 killing spree that left 10 dead in metropolitan Washington, D.C.

Muhammad was convicted and sentenced to death last year for the murder of Dean Harold Meyers during string of sniper shootings in Maryland, Virginia and D.C.

Now prosecutors in Fairfax County are seeking a second capital murder conviction, this time for the killing of FBI analyst Linda Franklin.

But Muhammad's lawyers say this second prosecution is tantamount to putting Muhammad on trial twice for the same crime. That's because at the first trial, prosecutors had to prove not only Meyers' murder but also a second murder to elevate the crime to pursue the death penalty.

Prosecutors presented extensive evidence of the Franklin killing to prove multiple murders. (AP)

Suspect in Bay Bridge Taping Posts $1M Bond

Elbarasse and wife have not been charged with any wrongdoing

BALTIMORE | A man described as a top Hamas operative who was arrested after officers pulled him over near the Chesapeake Bay Bridge was released Monday on a $1 million bond, a spokeswoman for the U.S. attorney's office said.

Ismael Selim Elbarasse was released after a closed detention hearing Monday morning in U.S. District Court in Baltimore, said spokeswoman Vickie LeDuc.

Elbarasse was arrested earlier this month after officers pulled him over just west of the bridge after spotting a camera being used in the SUV they were riding in. Police said his wife used a video camera to tape the structure.

Elbarasse was ordered released on the bond, which was set to ensure he would go to Illinois, where federal authorities in Chicago issued a material witness warrant Aug. 20 for him to appear before a grand jury. The grand jury is probing the financing of the Palestinian extremist group Hamas.

Neither Elbarasse, an accountant from Annandale, Va., nor his wife was charged with any wrongdoing in the Aug. 20 bridge incident and family members have said they were making a video of their vacation. BRIAN WITTE (AP)

Blaze May Be Work of Area Arsonist

FAIRFAX, VA. | Members of the Arson Task Force were investigating a Fairfax County house fire to see if it was the work of the Washington region's serial arsonist.

Firefighters were called to a house in the county's Huntington section early Monday. No one was home and there were no injuries.

Thirty-nine cases dating back to March 8, 2003, are being investigated by the Arson Task Force. Most are in the District and Prince George's County, Md., but there were two other fires in Fairfax County and one in Alexandria.

Monday's incident had some similarities to many of the other cases, with the fire beginning in the early hours of the morning on the outside of the house. (AP)

Trucks wait to fill their tanks outside Basra's South Oil Co. refinery on Monday. The company's exports have come to a halt after a rash of pipeline attacks, officials said.

Oil Traders Calm Despite Glum News Out of Iraq

WASHINGTON | Oil futures dropped by nearly $1 per barrel Monday despite more sabotage of Iraqi oil infrastructure, reinforcing the view among traders that prices had risen too fast earlier this summer.

"It just goes to show you that when the psychology turns, it turns," said Tom Bentz, a trader at BNP Paribas Futures in New York.

Light sweet crude plunged by 90 cents to $42.28 on the New York Mercantile Exchange. Crude futures are 14 percent below the record high of $48.70 on Aug. 19.

Oil markets have been extremely volatile because traders fear the possibility of a prolonged output disruption in Iraq, Russia or Venezuela. But with the exception of sporadic dropoffs in Iraqi oil exports, none of these fears have materialized.

On Monday, senior officials at Iraq's state-run oil company said exports had come to a halt after a rash of attacks on the country's petroleum infrastructure.

"Two weeks ago, with that news, we would have been up more than $1," Bentz said of the news from Iraq. "The tide has definitely turned." BRAD FOSS (AP)

Consumer Spending Rises

Dow lags despite news shoppers were more willing to spend in July

WASHINGTON | Shoppers spent more freely in July, raising hopes that June's economic lull could be coming to an end.

The Commerce Department reported Monday that consumers boosted spending by 0.8 percent in July. Their appetite to spend was led by a rebound in demand for durable goods such as cars, which rose 4.1 percent, compared with a 3.2 percent drop in June.

The latest snapshot of buyer behavior marked an improvement from June, when consumers cut spending by 0.2 percent. The 0.8 percent rise was slightly better than the 0.7 percent increase some economists had expected.

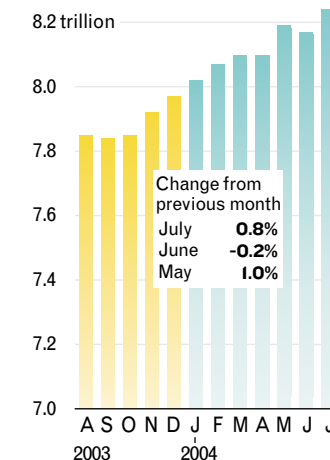

On Wall Street, the report failed to buoy investors. The Dow Jones industrials lost 72.49 points to close at 10,122.52.

Meanwhile, Americans' incomes nudged up just 0.1 percent in July, falling short of some analysts' call for a 0.5 percent gain. The increase followed a 0.2 percent rise in the previous month. It was the smallest advance since August 2002.

Work it Out

African Dance

MALCOLM X DRUMMERS AND DANCERS

(Meridian Hill Park, 16th and Euclid St. NW) Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.; $10. For more info, call Doc Powell at 202-368-8677.

WHAT IT IS: Every Sunday, musicians, poets and other artists gather for epic outpourings of creative energy in Meridian Hill Park. But for those who don't know how to strut their stuff in a drum circle, this low-key Saturday class is a way to learn the fundamentals of West African dance and prepare for the next day's festivities. Becky Umeh leads the steps in the grass while Doc Powell beats his drum.

MOVES: Virtually every position requires dancers to bend their knees slightly and lean forward, so thighs get sore quickly. Most moves are fairly basic combinations — those with a ballet background may recognize one as a pas de bourree — but when sped up, the series of steps, arm movements and head twirls can get tricky. Umeh emphasizes that African dance is free-form and encourages improvisation.

West African dance teacher Becky Umeh

CROWD: The class rarely attracts more than 10 students at a time, and most who pop in have little or no African dance experience. This past Saturday, dancers were outnumbered by curious onlookers, among them a fanny pack-toting tour group and a cluster of Mormon missionaries.

GARB: Flowing garments are popular, but running shorts and a T-shirt work, too. Umeh opts for bare feet, which make it easier to flex and point your toes properly. If you're worried about stepping on anything nasty though, it's best to keep your tootsies covered.

NITTY GRITTY: The easygoing attitude is a plus, but it has a downside as well. On Saturday, students waited for more than half an hour before the dancing commenced. The crew often heads inside to the Josephine Butler Parks Center (2437 15th St. NW) during inclement weather, so if you don't hear Powell pounding his drum, call him to track down the class.

SALLY SQUIRES' column appears Tuesdays in The Washington Post. She chats every Tuesday at 1 p.m. on washingtonpost.com/liveonline.

I have heard that using your fist to measure portion size is the easiest way to not overdo it. Doesn't everyone have a different size fist?

That's the point. You're using a measurement that's good for your body size. Actually, it's not so much your fist as what fits in your palm. I've measured mine for example, and it's about 1/3 cup. Try it and see what yours is. Your best best is to use a dry cereal that isn't sticky.

My husband has high cholesterol and I've been told I'm "pre-diabetic" (whatever that means). I'm looking for something I can cook for the two of us. Can you recommend a good cookbook to start?

"Pre-diabetic" likely means you're showing some glucose intolerance — when you eat, your body doesn't produce enough insulin and/or the insulin it produces is not as good at moving that sugar from the food into your body's cells. Check out the American Heart Association's cookbooks (www.americanheart.org), the National Heart Lung and Blood Institute's DASH diet (www.nhlbi.nih.gov) and the American Diabetes Association.

Is eating before you exercise or after better for your metabolism?

There's not really a "better" here. Both burn calories. What really counts is how much activity you do. Timing is less important.

Coaches Are the Stars in NFC East

Eagles enter season as favorites to win another division title

FOOTBALL | Joe Gibbs and Bill Parcells have five Super Bowl wins between them. Tom Coughlin took an expansion franchise in Jacksonville and had it in the AFC championship game in its second year.

The NFC East, however, belongs to Andy Reid.

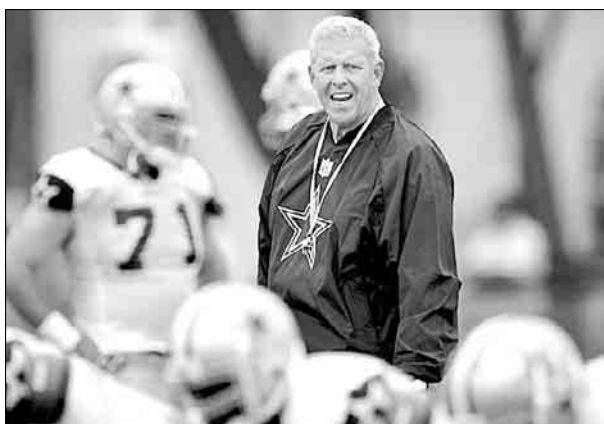

Reid took over the Eagles in 1999, went 5-11 with Donovan McNabb as a rookie and is 46-18 since, not counting the playoffs. The only stain on his record is three straight losses in NFC title games.

With the addition of Terrell Owens and Jevon Kearse, the Eagles have more than a decent shot at reaching the NFC championship again, although it would be considered another disaster in Philly if they stop there. Reid, his players and the city will be satisfied with nothing less than its first NFL title in 44 years.

The rest of the division can bask in the glory of its coaches.

CHALLENGERS: Redskins coach Joe Gibbs, above, Cowboys leader Bill Parcells, top right, and Giants coach Tom Coughlin have had plenty of success. But they are not favored to knock off the Philadelphia Eagles.

Washington fans have made a savior out of Gibbs, who won three Super Bowls in his first tenure with the Redskins (1981-92). This year, his presence alone should improve the team, although past spending sprees by owner Daniel Snyder have come to nothing under Norv Turner, Marty Schottenheimer and Steve Spurrier.

Dallas will begin the season with 40-year-old Vinny Testaverde at quarterback after Parcells cut Quincy Carter, last year's starter. Behind Testaverde is Drew Andy Reid is sitting pretty with Jevon Kearse and Terrell Owens in Philly.

Henson, who is promising but spent the past three seasons playing baseball and has never taken a snap in the NFL.

The Giants entered last season with Super Bowl hopes and finished 4-12, thanks in large part to a horrible offensive line and a spate of injuries. Coughlin was brought in to replace Jim Fassel and instill discipline in a team that finished 0-8 and clearly quit.

There are more than 20 new players, including six new starters in the defensive front seven, but the offensive line doesn't seem markedly better. DAVE GOLDBERG (AP)

Ravens Excited For 'Primetime' to Land in Baltimore

FOOTBALL | The Baltimore Ravens are awaiting the arrival of Deion Sanders, who appears poised to end his three-year retirement at age 37 and could join the team this week.

On a day in which cornerback Chris McAlister ended his one-month holdout, talk at the team training facility Monday centered around Sanders, who has been working out at his Dallas home this month in anticipation of joining the Ravens as a nickel back.

"We're very optimistic that Deion will be here," coach Brian Billick said. Billick is certain that if Sanders does show up, he will be ready to go in time for the Ravens' season opener in Cleveland on Sept. 12.

Sanders, known as "Primetime" in his heyday, has not played since retiring before the Redskins opened training camp in 2000. (AP)

Gibbs Goes With Brunell as Starter

Veteran gets nod over Ramsey in Redskins' quarterback battle

REDSKINS | As expected, Joe Gibbs went with the veteran quarterback.

Gibbs named Mark Brunell the opening-day starter Monday for the Washington Redskins, ending the quarterback battle with last season's starter, Patrick Ramsey.

"The thing I want to say about that is how pleased we are with our quarterback situation," Gibbs said. "I just think right now it's time to make a decision."

Brunell was already scheduled to start the final preseason game Friday against Atlanta. Washington opens the regular season at home against Tampa Bay on Sept. 12.

Brunell, who has 117 career starts, fits Joe Gibbs' preference for veteran QBs.

Washington traded a third-round draft pick to Jacksonville in the off-season to acquire the 11-year veteran. Gibbs won all three of his Super Bowls in Washington with experienced quarterbacks Joe Theismann, Doug Williams and Mark Rypien.

Brunell certainly fits that mold better than Ramsey, who has 16 games in his career compared to 117 by Brunell.

Even still, Gibbs promised Ramsey, who initially demanded to be traded after the team brought in Brunell, a fair competition for the job and seemed to honor his word. Each player was given two starts in the preseason.

"It's nice to be at this point," Brunell said. "Hopefully this is something that can launch this offense into the regular season." (AP)

WAIT TILL NEXT YEAR: Brock Lesnar won't be the next big thing in the NFL — at least not this year. The former pro wrestling star for World Wrestling Entertainment, who hadn't played football in nine years, was cut by the Minnesota Vikings on Monday.

Federer Advances in Open

Men's top seed defeats Costa in straight sets

TENNIS | Australian Open and Wimbledon champion Roger Federer began his quest for a third Grand Slam title this season on Monday, defeating former French Open champion Albert Costa, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4, in the first round of the U.S. Open.

Playing on an oppressively humid afternoon at the National Tennis Center, Federer came into the Open on a mission. He has never progressed beyond the round of 16 in four previous appearances at the season's final Grand Slam.

Next for Federer is qualifier Marcos Baghdatis of Cyprus, who defeated France's Gregory Carraz.

Longtime Open favorite Jennifer

Capriati, seeded No. 8, dropped her first set to Denisa Chladkova but then recovered for a 2-6, 6-1, 6-2 victory. Also Mardy Fish, the silver medalist at Athens, defeated David Ferrer 7-5, 6-3, 6-2.

Earlier, third-seeded Carlos Moya got an early scare from wild-card entry Brian Baker, dropping the first set before recovering to defeat the 19-year-old 6-7 (6), 6-4, 6-4, 6-2. HAL BOCK (AP)

Braves' Rally Damages Playoff Hopes of Giants

BASEBALL | Even with a big lead in the NL East, the Atlanta Braves aren't taking anything for granted.

Playing like a team fighting for a playoff spot, the Braves rallied for two runs in the ninth inning Monday to defeat the San Francisco Giants 7-6.

Julio Franco tied the game with an RBI triple and Andruw Jones followed with a game-winning single off Giants closer Dustin Hermanson.

It was a painful loss for the Giants, who began the day tied with Chicago and San Diego for the NL wild-card lead. They'll try to rebound when they play host to Colorado and Arizona in a six-game homestand that begins Tuesday night.

Barry Bonds was not in the starting lineup a day after he hit two of the three longest home runs in Turner Field history Sunday night.

Social Climber

Reese Witherspoon brings a blithe spirit to her spunky roles

CASTING | Like so many of the irrepressible characters she has played on-screen — "Election's" Tracy Flick, "Legally Blonde's" Elle Woods and "Sweet Home Alabama's" Melanie Carmichael, to name a few — Reese Witherspoon has a way of overcoming obstacles.

Shortly after accepting the lead role in Mira Nair's "Vanity Fair," Witherspoon discovered she was pregnant. "I called Mira and asked if we could do this movie when I was pregnant," recalled the 28-year-old actress, who gave birth to her second child, Deacon, just months after wrapping the period epic based on William Makepeace Thackeray's classic novel.

"She was a great sport about it," Witherspoon continued. "She used [the pregnancy] as part of the story's development."

Witherspoon plays the ambitious Becky Sharp, a 19th-century orphan who aspires to gain acceptance into English society by whatever means necessary. Though crafty and often self-centered, she is nonetheless a likable heroine.

CHARM AND SHARP CLAWS: Witherspoon's Becky Sharp is a determined striver.

Playing one of literature's notable social climbers, Witherspoon had her work cut out for her. Becky ages 17 years from an uncertain teenager to a worldly woman through the course of the drama.

Witherspoon credits costumer Beatrix Pastzor for designing gowns that masked her pregnancy when necessary and accentuated her belly when the story called for it, as in a seductive, Bollywood-style dance number. "Some of the stuff was so hard to do, but it was so fun," said Witherspoon.

An avowed feminist who supports and frequently works with female directors, Witherspoon had no doubt she could handle the role. Indeed, she said her condition may have enhanced the character, particularly in the sequence where Becky's husband goes off to war.

"It added a lot of dimension to me for the character in that time," she said. "What would it be like to give birth at that time and be a woman at that time — things like that."

As the film's sole American star, Witherspoon said she could relate to her character's unbridled aspirations.

"It's a very universal idea, particularly in America, to reach for something bigger, better or higher, whether it's class, money, jobs or a degree," she said. "The thing I like about this character is that she's not the good girl and she's not the bad girl. Nobody is that clear cut in real life."

Guided by Voices calls it quits with an ambitious last album

MUSIC | Going out on top is the real American dream: coasting to a finish on one last wave of adulation before one's powers decline. Few actually do it, though.

Guided by Voices hasn't declined, and no one asked the band to go away. Still, frontman Robert Pollard is conscious of the past glories among nearly 20 years' worth of albums, and he's quitting while he's (more or less) ahead with "Half Smiles of the Decomposed." (GBV will break up after touring this fall; Pollard plans to record on his own.)

It's just like Pollard to finish with a departure from the sound that once represented Guided by Voices. There are old-school elements in the chugging guitar on "The Closets of Henry" and the bright pop of "Huffman Prairie Flying Field." But in place of brawny lo-fi hooks, the boozy singer digs further into the textures that characterized last year's "Earthquake Glue." "Girls of Wild Strawberries"

HEARING THINGS: Guided by Voices is bowing out with a risky departure in style.

lays a chiming electric guitar over plodding acoustic chords and prickly distortion underpins the weary swaying of "Sing for Your Meat."

It's a promising new direction, but not a fully realized one. We'll have to make do, of course, but "Half Smiles" is not quite the satisfying finale it could have been.

Old Dogs & Copycats

The new TV season has many shows but not a lot of choices

FALL PREVIEW | Broadcast networks are in big trouble this season if federal regulators add being derivative to the list of TV trespasses.

Networks are copying their own series, some for the third or fourth time ("CSI," "Law & Order"), or putting on new lookalikes ("The Contender" vs. "The Next Great Champ").

The trend is nearly overwhelming in the 2004-05 season — nearly, but not quite.

There are a few wayward and promising originals, including ABC's suburban satire "Desperate Housewives"; CBS' coming-of-age baseball drama "Clubhouse" and the WB's "Jack & Bobby," about a future U.S. president's youth.

Mostly, however, viewers will get what's been proven to work because networks figure playing it safe is the sanest course of action.

Since people flock to CBS' "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation" and "CSI: Miami," give 'em "CSI: NY." Or a fourth "Law & Order, coming midseason. Or two more reality series in which rich guys spread the wealth in the tradition of NBC's hit "The Apprentice" ("The Benefactor," "The Billionaire: Branson's Quest for the Best").

There's déjà vu in casting as well, with Rob Lowe ("The West Wing") in "Dr. Vegas"; Neal McDonough ("Boomtown") and Kelli Williams ("The Practice") in "Medical Investigation"; and John Goodman ("Roseanne"), Jean Smart ("Designing Women") and Ed Asner ("Lou Grant") in "Center of the Universe."

(Heck, even "Jeopardy!" is bringing back last season's champion, Ken Jennings, in September.)

The goal for networks is to keep their footing in the unending battle against cable TV's innovative, often racy programming which broadcast can match in only a pallid fashion.

A paltry seven new sitcoms are debuting, making an already drama-heavy schedule even more so. For the first time in two decades, NBC won't have four sitcoms on Thursday night. It will have "Joey," the "Friends" spinoff starring Matt LeBlanc and one of the season's high-profile newcomers.

Another season hallmark is the sizable number of new reality shows — six — and their introduction at the season's start, not as substitutes for failed scripted shows.

The result: TV's extreme, if gradual, makeover. LYNN ELBER (AP)

Warring 'Passions' on DVD

DVDS | Using a barrage of criticism directed against his forthcoming film as a rallying cry, Mel Gibson built a network of religious leaders to spread the word, with churches buying out entire screenings to see "The Passion of the Christ."

The result was a bona fide religious blockbuster. Jim Caviezel stars as Christ in his bloody final hours of scourging and crucifixion. Gibson chose to release just the film on the DVD (20th Century Fox), with no extras.

From loyal opposition Trey Parker and Matt Stone comes "South Park: The Passion of the Jew" (Paramount). The DVD features the animated show's episode spoofing Gibson's "Passion," the movie inspiring Jew-baiting Cartman to organize a "final solution," shaming Kyle into loathing his Jewish heritage and sending Stan and Kenny on a quest to get their money back from Gibson after they see the film and hate it. The disc includes two other "South Park" episodes with church themes. DAVID GERMAIN (AP)

HE'S ALWAYS WANTED TO: Shut out of the sitcom sweepstakes, former "Friends" fellow David Schwimmer will direct the indie feature film "Run, Fat Boy, Run." Schwimmer perkily pronounced Michael Ian Black's script "simply too funny and smart to put down." Keep your chin up, Dave.

Coming to America, Again

IMPORTS | You know it's not a typical talk show when the host's father, who is sitting on the other side of guest Patrick Stewart, asks how much the actor earned last year.

Welcome to "The Kumars at No. 42," the British TV show that's a hit on four continents and is getting a chance at a fifth with its debuts on BBC America. This hybrid of family sitcom and talk show, part scripted and part improvised, is the brainchild of Sanjeev Bhaskar, who also stars in the show.

But will "The Kumars" play in Kansas City? The show's concept has been tried here before, with disheartening results. "The Ortegas," the Americanized version set in Southern California, never got on the air.

The difference has to do partly with the kind of slow nurturing an offbeat show can receive in Britain but that's increasingly out of the question on American network TV.

ALL ZANY FAMILIES ARE ALIKE: Bhaskar, seated, with the fictional Kumars.

Bhaskar, 40, said his own parents regularly provide material for the show. Take, for example, when one of the stars of Tim Burton's "Planet of the Apes" was on the Kumars' couch in 2002. Bhaskar introduced her to his mother.

"I said, 'Mum, this is Helena Bonham Carter.' Mum said, 'You're such a pretty girl. It's a shame they forced you to wear a monkey mask in your last film.'" JONATHAN TAYLOR (LOS ANGELES TIMES)

“The industry is going overseas. Our government should create incentives to keep the business here.”
—Actor Joe Pantoliano at a pre-Republican National Convention media party.

‘Pride’ Before Fall

DEBUTS | The new animated comedy “Father of the Pride” (9 p.m., NBC) features a cast of voices that represent the past, present and perhaps future of situation comedy, including Carl Reiner, John Goodman and Cheryl Hines. Set in Las Vegas, “Father” chronicles the foibles of a menagerie of critters owned by casino entertainers Siegfried & Roy (the voices of Julian Holloway and Dave Herman). Although the Teutonic illusionists think they call the shots, the animals carry on a homey domestic existence not so different from that of Rob and Laura Petrie’s New Rochelle. Lion Larry (Goodman) and his wife, Kate (Hines), have a grammar-school age boy and a surly teenage daughter who jokes about doing drugs. “Pride” could appeal to the young ’uns, but its makers include enough adult subject matter and nasty language to make it awkward for parents to watch with their children. Still, the series has more three-dimensional wit than the average sitcom. KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNKITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

ON TV TONIGHT

GOOD DOG, NICE DOG ... Who put the WWE in A&E? BOUNTY HUNTER (10 p.m., A&E), starring a grizzled ex-con biker-turned-bounty hunter, is the network’s latest down-market move. Duane “Dog” Chapman’s sandpaper voice betrays a lifetime of screaming over bar bands, and his distressed mullet looks like it’s been left in the desert sun. Like a country song, his recurring refrains involve kicking butt, a love of sunsets and his faith in Jesus, roughly in that order. BACK IN TIME WITH MEL BACKSPIN (8 p.m., Bravo) looks at the life and career of actor/director Mel Gibson in reverse chronological order, from the controversial success of “The Passion of the Christ” back to his childhood and devout religious upbringing. HERE’S TO COLIN AND CHRISTIE FALLING IN A DEEP SAND PIT AMAZING RACE 5 (9 p.m., CBS) Five remaining couples run breathlessly through airports. TALK ABOUT TYPECASTING SCRUBS (8:30 p.m., NBC) Heather Graham guest stars as a psychiatrist. NO, REALLY; WHAT’S IT ABOUT? TREACHEROUS BEAUTIES (9 P.M., WE) “Dynasty” glamour-girls Emma Samms and Catherine Oxenberg star in this 1994 potboiler based on a Harlequin romance novel of the same name. KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

Getting Around

Thanks for Sharing

Still too young to rent a car? Anyone older than 21 can take a Zip or Flex car for a spin sans co-signers or extra insurance. You just need a decent driving record and, for FlexCar, five years driving experience.

Both car-sharing services work the same: Fork over an annual membership fee, choose a rate plan, then pay by the hour or day, with surcharges for mileage over a certain amount. Reserve the car online, use a key-card to enter and return the car to the same spot.

ZipCar offers discounts for students at Catholic, George Mason, Georgetown, George Washington and Howard universities. (EXPRESS)

Cheap Seats

New York snobs rarely stoop to visit D.C. We don't have a hipster downtown scene, authentic bagels, or so-called "celebrities." But we pay slightly less in rent. (So there!) And with those savings, we can head to the Big Apple any time we want for $35 round-trip ($20 one-way) on one of the area's budget bus lines.

Online reservations are free, and some companies allow you to buy in advance as well. The Web site ivymedia.com displays most of the buses' full schedules and allows you to reserve. Show up with a reservation a few minutes early and you'll be noshing at Gray's Papaya in four to six hours.

→ APEX TRAVEL (apexbus.com, 202-408-8200; pick-up: 610 I St. NW and suburban locations; drop-off: 88 East Broadway).

Offers a $30 round-trip deal when you buy tickets at one of six grocery stores in Maryland and Virginia.

→ DRAGON EXPRESSWAY (dragonexpressway.com, 800-475-1160; pick-up: 14th and L NW, New York and 9th NW; drop-off: 32nd and Broadway, Worth and Mott). Dragon switched from Chinese language movies to American ones, but they tend to be odd options suited for episodes of Mystery Science Theater 3000.

→ EASTERN (easternshuttle.com, 202-842-0688; pick-up: 715 H St. NW, 355 Hwy #430 in Rockville; drop-off: 42nd and 7th, 34th and 7th, Forsyth St. and E. Broadway). Offers more departures than any other line. On a recent trip on an early Sunday morning, the bus carried only about eight passengers, allowing for much extra legroom and quiet time.

→ NEW CENTURY TRAVEL (2000coach.com, 202-789-8222; pick-up: 513 H St. NW; drop-off: 88 E. Broadway). If you want to schedule a pick-up or drop-off in Baltimore, call ahead and they'll hook you up.

→ TODAY'S (todaybus.com, 202-326-0892; pick-up: 610 I St. NW, 460 Hungerford Dr. in Rockville; drop-off: 27th and 7th, 88 E. Broadway). With its 3:30 a.m. departure, Today's gets you to the city in time for your power breakfast.

→ VAMOOSÉ (vamoosébus.com, 877-393-2828; pick-up: 40th St. and Albemarle NW, 14th and I St. NW; drop-off: 31st and 8th). Unlike other lines, it offers frequent traveler bonuses. Save 10 receipts for a free one-way and 15 for a gratis round-trip.

Back to School: Without Wheels

No car? No problem. Here's how to run errands, wrangle cabs and take a trip

→ WASHINGTON DELUXE (washingtondeluxe.com, 866-287-6932; pick-up: 15th and K NW, New Jersey and E NW; drop-off: 34th and 8th, Brooklyn locations). Since it's the only cheap line with advertising, it gets super crowded — often with a crew easily mistaken for a college tour group. (It's growing popular with bona fide tourists too.) Movie quality is generally good, but be prepared: Nothing is edited. On a recent trip, a mother had to stop "Reservoir Dogs" before her child was traumatized for life. VICKY HALLETT

A Fair Fare

The challenges of adjusting to a new peer group pale in comparison to mastering the D.C. taxicab system. Fares for the same ride seem to never quite be the same twice.

Within the District, fares are calculated by zones and subzones, maps of which are displayed on the back of the driver's seat in every cab. A trip within a single zone or subzone costs $5.50, plus extras (see box); additional zones add varying amounts. Trips that start or end in Maryland or Virginia are generally calculated by mileage.

You can calculate fares within the District or to area airports at about.dc.gov.

We turned to KIMBERLY LEWIS, attorney advisor for the D.C. Taxicab Commission, for advice:

Should you ask how much the fare is before getting into the cab?

No. [The driver could refuse you if you ask from outside the cab.] Get into the cab and tell the driver the destination, then ask what the fare would be and how many zones it covers. Then you can check the zone chart and map to make sure the driver quotes the right price.

What if you figured your fare beforehand but are charged more?

Don't get into a heated discussion with the cab driver. Get a receipt and make sure they fill it out. It should indicate the amount paid, the name of the driver, the date, time, origination and destination. Then contact our office to file a complaint. See [dctaxi.dc.gov for instructions.]

Do drivers expect to be tipped?

They would like to have a tip, sure, just like you'd tip a waiter or waitress. Cab drivers are part of the service industry.

If you want to be sure you're not driven through extra zones, can you specify a route to a driver?

Drivers are required to take you the most direct route. A lot of professional drivers who have driven for many years are aware of traffic route changes in the city. So you might think your route is the best one, but they might know about detours or conditions at certain times of day.

Take into consideration that this is their job ... you want to be very tactful. But if the driver is taking you on a route that deviates off-course, then definitely speak up.

What if a driver can't provide change for a $20 or larger bill?

If you have only large bills, ask the driver beforehand if he has change. The driver should stop en route to get change at no extra charge. But if you don't ask beforehand, the driver must stop to get change and can charge you 50 cents extra. JENNIE KIM

MOVE IT: Vamoosé your caboose to New York on a cheap bus.

It's the Little Things: Taxicab Add-On Fees

→ $1.50 per additional passenger — if you're all going to the same place from the same place. If not, the full fare applies for each person/group.
→ $5.00 per each piece of luggage handled by the driver
→ $2 for trunks and other very large items

→ $1 during rush hour (7:00-9:30 a.m. and 4:00-6:30 p.m.)
→ $2 for radio dispatch (that is, if you call for the taxi)
→ DOUBLE FARES on a snow emergency day

Live Online

Tucker Carlson

Conservative commentator TUCKER CARLSON was online Monday from New York to discuss the Republican National Convention | washingtonpost.com/liveonline

How have the New Yorkers been treating you? Are people polite or are you being spat upon?

Are New Yorkers being polite? Of course not. But I don't take it personally. That's just the way they are. No spitting so far. And the restaurants are terrific.

What has been the reaction of the delegates to the protests — bemusement, respect, lack of interest, changing their vote to Kerry ...?

I haven't interviewed any delegates yet but it's hard to imagine that many of them are going to be won over to Kerry by the protesters, most of whom seem to have multiple piercings. But I could be wrong.

Did I read correctly on a blog that you are not going to vote for Bush?

I think the war in Iraq was a major mistake.

Does New York City make sense for the Bush campaign? There are few places where he would be more poorly received than New York.

I tend to agree. The sunbelt seems a smarter choice to me for a GOP convention. New Mexico, Arizona, Florida, anywhere in the Deep South — that's what I would have chosen. But, unfortunately, I'm not in charge.

Are the evangelicals steaming at their apparent lack of exposure at the convention?

The evangelicals ought to be mad. The party leadership counts on their votes, but views them with snobbish contempt, hiding them at events like this.

I like the evangelicals. Some of their leaders are corrupt, but as a group they're honest, decent and thoughtful. They're direct. They believe what they say. Unlike a lot of liberals, they don't want to control your life.

Police Pushy Passengers

MY METRO RIDE should take only 10 minutes, but during the afternoon rush so many commuters get pushy, rude and impatient that my ride balloons into a 30-minute commute. I honestly think that Metro security — the people that I see standing on most platforms and entrances — should be given the authority to issue tickets and fines for those commuters they see physically holding open doors of Metro train cars because the rest of their 10-person party just absolutely couldn't wait for the next train.

Arlington, Va.

Correction

In Monday's Entertainment section, we incorrectly stated that a still image of a football video game was from "ESPN NFL 2K5." The image was actually from "Madden NFL 2005."

THREATS She Could Have Acted Someone to Death!

Actress ROSARIO DAWSON was arrested about a block from the Republican National Convention when she allegedly refused to move off a road, authorities said Monday. Dawson was filming a movie called "This Revolution" and wearing a handkerchief as a mask. Director Stephen Marshall reportedly tried to show his city film permit but was arrested anyway. They were charged with disorderly conduct and obstructing governmental administration. Both were released without bail. (AP)

SUMMITS Mr. Minister, Sir, Has France Considered Scientology?

TOM CRUISE and outspoken French Finance Minister Nicolas Sarkozy held a 90-minute meeting on Monday to discuss the state of Franco-American relations, among other things, the ministry said.

Cruise requested the audience himself after reading about Sarkozy, whom Cruise left with a standing invitation to visit his ranch in Colorado. The actor was in France to attend the premiere of "Collateral." It is unclear whether the visit had an impact on France's opinion of America. (EXPRESS)

INFANTS Next Time, Let's Buy Some Twins, Kelsey!

KELSEY GRAMMER and wife CAMILLE DONATACCI are the parents of a boy, born to a surrogate mother. Jude Gordon Grammer weighed 7 pounds, 11 ounces. He was born Saturday in Sacramento, Grammer's publicist said Monday. The infant is now in Los Angeles with his parents. The couple's daughter, Mason Olivia, was born to a surrogate in October 2001. "Do you think Mason will resent us for giving Jude a normal name, Kelsey?"

COURT Pleas Please Me

Rapper JA RULE will plead not guilty to assault charges brought by Toronto police, his lawyer said Monday. "You can underline that three times," Steven Skurka said after a pretrial date was set for Oct. 6. The performer, whose real name is Jeffrey Atkins, did not attend the hearing. Ja Rule, who lives in New Jersey but had been frequenting Toronto for film shoots, was charged with assault causing bodily harm last month. (AP)

'You'd Vote If Usher Said To'

In a stirring affirmation of young people's sense of themselves as voters, ALEXANDRA and VANESSA KERRY and JENNA and BARBARA BUSH (via tape) were loudly booed at Sunday night's MTV Video Music Awards in Miami.

No one is sure why there was booing, or even if it was intended for the political daughters, but it began immediately after Carson Daly introduced them. Some people cheered, adding to the confusion. Afterward, Vanessa told CNN that the booing had "scared" her, but she did not specify whether her fear was for her person or for the future of civic participation in America. (EXPRESS)

Let's Get Mikey — He'll Plug Anything!

MICHAEL PHELPS and fellow U.S. gold medalists Lenny Krayzelburg and Ian Crocker are launching a 12-city "Swim With the Stars" tour on Tuesday in Orlando, Disney said Sunday. The two-hour show will feature "the unparalleled accomplishments of each swimmer in a unique, exciting and intimate atmosphere." "Since I was a kid, I've dreamed of winning the gold medal and shouting 'I'm going to Disney World!'" said Phelps, obligingly. (EXPRESS)

Horoscope

By Stella Wilder

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Someone else may be more practical than you are, and there are a few things you will learn if you keep your eyes open.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You may be in need of a little technical assistance before the day is out. You know who to go to for help, so why wait?

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You may be required to make a decision that will prove unpopular to others. Still, it was your only real choice.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) You may be surprised by the final outcome of a long-term struggle, but you will have the chance to begin again with new direction.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your interest in justice, equality and fair treatment will match that of the most fervent Libra native. Demand your share.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) A decision brought down by someone in authority will help you in the long run, though its immediate effects will be good and bad.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) One plus one equals two, usually. You may stumble upon a situation that simply defies logic and convention. Take your time.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) There is more to the truth than your side of the story, and you'll have the chance to get the whole picture. Don't be rash.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll be in the very center of the storm, and will have the influence to keep things under control when it is most necessary.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You won't have to do more than usual to get your average results. If you want more, however, you may have to do more.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A major personal issue will be in the spotlight during the first part of the day. Make sure you do not turn your attention elsewhere.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Problems associated with financial concerns are likely to come to the forefront before the day is done. You'll discover a way out by day's end.

▼ GIVE US

- ◆ 30 minutes, twice a week training on your own
- ◆ A longer group weekend run
- ◆ Your fundraising efforts
- ◆ Your dedication and commitment

▼ YOU GET

- ◆ A six-month training program for either a marathon or half marathon
- ◆ Great coaching, support, and camaraderie
- ◆ Round-trip air travel and hotel accommodations in the French Quarter of New Orleans
- ◆ Free entry for the Mardi Gras Marathon or Half Marathon on February 27, 2005
- ◆ The official marathon shirt
- ◆ The official marathon medal
- ◆ The joy and satisfaction that comes from knowing you are a hero to people with AIDS
- ◆ Bragging rights for accomplishing something others only dream about
- ◆ New friends and memories that will last a lifetime

A Training Program for Everyone

Our six-month training programs are geared to both beginners and experienced runners. The full marathon program starts with three miles of running and walking and then gradually increases in distance. The half marathon program starts with just one mile. Whether you have never run a step, or you are a seasoned marathoner wanting to improve your personal best, this program will help you succeed.

Each weekend, you'll train with your "pace group" – other runners who share your same level of conditioning, whether fast or slow. It's a great way to get fit, have fun, and make a tremendous difference in the fight to end AIDS. It may be the best thing you do this year, and your life will never be the same.

Guided Fundraising

AIDS is now the leading cause of death worldwide for people ages 15-59. And the rate of new AIDS cases in Washington, DC is 12 times higher than the national average. The money we raise will allow Whitman-Walker Clinic to provide direct medical care, food, housing, and other vital AIDS services – to help keep people with HIV/AIDS alive until there's a cure.

In the past five years, we've helped 14,000 people nationwide raise more than $45 million to support people living with HIV/AIDS. We'll be there to help you every step of the way. You'll be surprised at how willing people are to support you. All you have to do is ask.
